

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 Polyether polymers providing a backbone substituted at intervals with electron stabilizing groups containing electron withdrawing groups are described. The polymers capture electrons and are electronegative. The polymers act to solvate alkali metals so that electrons are withdrawn from the alkali metal into the polymer. The polymer compositions are conductive under certain conditions
10 and are magnetic. The compositions are useful in electronic applications.